Continental Products, Inc. is a private label, custom, chemical compound manufacturer and packager. They produce a variety of products including specialty compounds and adhesives. For the past 5 years, they have relied on Inline Filling Systems filling equipment for their packaging needs.

“Reliability and quality engineering in packaging equipment is especially important to us” said Drew Van Allen of Continental Products. “The machines we purchased from Inline Filling have stood the test of time with customized solutions that meet our needs.”

Inline filling machines provides the company with capping machines that address the variety of packages that Continental has for their products. “We have had a great experience with Inline Filling” continued Van Allen. “They have really helped us understand how to package our products effectively and provided us with the training we needed on how to manage and maintain our equipment.”
